A RIOT IN CHINA:

An American Missionary Establishment Destroyed.

WAR SHIPS ARE ON THE WAY

The Charleston, and Pensacola Ordered Alapt. The Attack at Ichang Several Miles Inland—The Ships Can Hardly Reach It.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The department of state has received a telegraphic dispatch from its minister at Pekin reporting that a riot has occurred at Ichang on the Yang-tse-kiang in the province of Hoo Pe, and that an establishment of American missionaries had been destroyed. No further details are given.

The gravity of the situation in China is not lessened by this, and the navy department is taking steps to protect American interests under the representations of the department of state. The Charleston is on her way to China from San Francisco and the Pensacola, in the neighborhood of New York, is under orders to proceed to the same destination. To strengthen Admiral Belknap's fleet, they can hardly reach their destination inside of two months.

Particular concern is felt at the department in this riot, because of its location, being upward of two hundred miles further into Yang-tse-kiang than Hong Kong, which is far above the mouth of vessels of ocean make their way under ordinary circumstances. In time of high water light draught vessels may get above there, and in fact, Asiatic, and the Monocacy have succeeded in reaching Ichang, but unless there is high water in the river at present Admiral Belknap will have difficulty in getting a vessel up to the scene of trouble.

Rio Grande Gossip.

DENVER, Sept. 10.—There is nothing new in the Rio Grande office to-day and the announcement of the new president is still withheld by Mr. Coppel, though he has the full authority to name the official with the assurance that the appointment will be ratified at the next annual meeting.

Mr. Coppel came down about 11 o'clock this morning and received the heads of several departments in his private office and were closely questioned in detail regarding the conditions of affairs in each.

It is learned the chairman has expressed no dissatisfaction with what he has heard.

Information was received at the Santa Fe office this morning that President Manvel of the company would be in the city on Friday morning and possibly on Sunday to consult with Mr. Coppel. What significance there may be in that, if any, is not clear. It is probable however that the officials will jointly view a portion or perhaps the entire Rio Grande system.

It is understood that Mr. Coppel does not think that any other officers shall take place in any of the departments. He assumes that the very best men and assistants have been engaged by the former management, and that each will be in his place as usual, ready for duty as soon as the new president shall arrive.

The Park Fund Disaster.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The subscription for the relief of the sufferers by the Park fire were declared closed at a meeting of the relief committee to-day. The total received was $27,000. The committee reported that out of sixty-three families in need, forty certainly required help. In four cases the committee recommended that the money be paid in one sum of from $100 to $1,000, and in the others it be paid in installments extending over periods ranging from six months to two years. The investigation as to the causes of the disaster was resumed to-day. The testimony of importance was that of Fry who had a number of workmen in the ruins searching for the bodies. He said that while at work in the ruins on Friday he expressed the belief that the wall had collapsed. A man who was standing near, and who the witness thought was Mr. Liebler, of Liebler & Maxwell, the place of business of which was in the building, stepped up to him and said: "Keep quiet, I will make it appear an explosion, whether it was or not." We want our insurance." Mr. Liebler subsequently took the stand and denied this. He admitted, however, having had a conversation with Fry.

Continuing the testimony of several witnesses Coroner Hanley declared the investigation closed. He then briefly addressed the jury and said it appeared to him that the disaster had narrowed down to four causes, one of which might have caused the disaster. First, faulty construction; second, defects in material; third, overcrowding; fourth, explosion. The jury then left.

A verdict was rendered this evening, in accordance with the verdict this evening, as familiar one and does not specifically charge any persons who are to blame for the disaster or any definite cause therefor. It states, however, that the timbers and walls of the building were of faulty and inadequate construction, the iron columns were not put in the specifications called for. It is shown that the fall of the building resulted from the breaking of one or more of the columns, but that the fracture of the columns was due to some sudden shock rather than to exterior and not primarily to inherent weakness.

It says, however, that it is unable to determine whether this was caused by the explosion of a magazine or some other shock. Finally the jury recommends that the law provide for periodical inspection of buildings used for printing, manufacturing, or similar purposes, so as to guard against overloading and the use of materials dangerously inflammable in any building where other labor is carried on.

The Refugees Landed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The United States steamer Cyane arrived at this port today from Baltimore arrived at this port today with on board eighteen refugees from the Chilean Balmaceda's minister of war, Domingo Godoy, late minister of state and foreign affairs, and their families. The family of Admiral Oscar Viel, commander of Valparaiso, who is said to be found the German man-of-war Cyane also were aboard. Permission was granted by the Peruvian authorities to land refugees. This was accordingly done. The Baltimore will return at once to Chile.

Bribe-takers in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 10.—The escape of Jackson which is now fully understood to have been effected by bribery, is the cause of excitement through the city. A confession of Anderson which implicates the guilty men. The matter is being mixed up with campaign politics and it is alleged that Republican officials are delaying Anderson's trial in order to screen Republicans until after the election.

A warrant has been issued for Clement Bell and his name has been widely mentioned except that of L. M. Hadden, assistant county solicitor. It is said he had a key which was intended to be lost by Anderson to make it appear that he unlocked his own door. To-day Hadden tendered his resignation until he could vindicate himself. County solicitor Spiegel refused to receive it, but relieved him from duty pending investigation.

Notes Pauper Immigrant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Ruvel Dunski, an Austrian, aged 41 years, was among the steerage passengers who arrived at this port to-day by the steamer Spearndam. On being examined at the barge office it was found that he had in his possession $10,000 in United States gold on his person. Dunski had been a farmer and had sold his land with the view of coming to this country and settling in Newark, N. J. The average amount of money possessed by steerage passengers is between $5 and $10.

BASE BALL.

Western Association.

DENVER SIOUX CITY.

DENVER, Sept. 10.—Denver and Sioux City played a very exciting and close game to-day in which Sioux City came out second best. Ehret was in the box for Sioux City and was hit hard at times but the perfect support he received saved him. Dolan pitched a magnificent game for Denver, only four hits being made off his delivery. Score:

OMAHA-KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 10.—The Kansas City and Omaha teams gave an exhibition to-day of how not to play base ball. The game was bad all the way through, both teams contributing to the badness. Omaha won by heavy hitting in two innings assisted by a bunch of errors in both by the home team. Score: Kansas City 14, Omaha 21.

National League.

NEW YORK-CLEVELAND.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—It was through two miserable errors by O'Rourke that Cleveland got a lead of three runs in the third inning. Beginning with a passed ball, Pfeffer got to third on a two-bagger by Richardson and a single by Glasscock in the fourth, a horrible muff by McKean, a juggle by Tebeau and McKean's wild throw to the fifth the local team caught up. After all this Gore gave a sort of playing both sides settled down. John Ewing pitched a fine game and was fairly supported. The same can be said of Gulick, in the ninth inning Ewing got first on balls and scored on Gore's single and a two-bagger by Bassett. Score: New York 6, Cleveland 5.

CHICAGO-PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Anson and his colts closely out-played the Phillies to-day and won an uninteresting and one sided game. Score: Chicago 6, Philadelphia 1.

BROOKLYN-PITTSBURG.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 10.—Caruthers and King had a pitcher's contest this afternoon. King weakened first and the home team got enough runs in before Caruthers was pulled out of the game, though by a small margin. Carl Morey put up a fine game at first base. Orillia was particularly strong at bat and in field. Ward fielded closely and concluded with excellent judgment. Altogether it was a game of ball such as has been seen but seldom on the local grounds this season. Score: Brooklyn 4, Pittsburg 3.

BOSTON-CINCINNATI.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Rad. Cross, big and lazy, could not see the ball and the plate to-day without having it knocked somewhere where fielders did not dwell. The Reds took small revenge for the whitewash he gave so instalmentally in cooling them with his long slow and tangled the ball in all directions. Crane did some clever fielding, however, and with Fatman, carried away the honors in that respect. Nichols was again in the box at the start but was unsteady and was soon replaced by Staley. Tucker made a great catch of Kelly's fly and saved the first inning. Score: Boston 18, Cincinnati 7.

A Game at Ann Arbor.

At Louisville—Baltimore 3, Louisville 1. Game called on account of darkness.
At Milwaukee—Milwaukee 30, Washington 3.

Bank Fund Indicted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A Washington special to The Commercial Advertiser says: Private advices received here from Rome make it appear that Baron Fava, the Italian ex-minister at Washington, who got his government into an unpleasant controversy with the United States over the New Orleans riot and was recalled, breaking off diplomatic relations between the two governments, has been placed "under accusation," for appropriating to his own use money allowed for the rent of legation mansions in this city. This is equal to being indicted.

It is explained that the minister was allowed by his country $5,000 a year for the rent of a "palace." While here, however, he occupied rooms in a very modest house, which, it is said cost him a very small sum each month. Persons who entertained no very friendly feelings for him called the attention of the Italian government to the matter and pictures of the house in which he had his rooms have been taken and sent to Italy. It is said also that the prime minister had an investigation made to determine upon what the difference had gone which here. His being put "under accusation" was the result. Of course it is known here that Baron Fava lived in very modest quarters, but the accuracy of the statement that his government allowed him $5,000 a year for the rent is something Marquis Rudini knows best about.

DENVER, Sept. 10.—Ex-Senator Tabor, president of the chamber of commerce, has named the following delegates to attend the railroad conventions in Albuquerque and El Paso: John Evans, D. C. Packard, A. W. Chamberlin; Thomas M. Patterson, J. Hoffman, William N. Byers, E. H. Nicholz, Frank Jerome, Samuel Tesson, C. H. Reynolds, J. L. Comforth, Harvey W. Lorenan, Ernest P. Thomas, J. S. The Albuquerque convention will be held on the 16th of this month and the El Paso convention on the 21st.

The Scarles Will Case.

SALEM, Mass., Sept. 10.—Those in a position to be familiar with the Scarles will case say that the Scarles is good for a compromise before the hearing assigned for two weeks from yesterday. They say that the South Pacific stock is held together under this will and that rather than take the risk of breaking up this large block of stock the parties will pay roundly and that Timothy Hopkins is really the only one who has any case that will bear any sort of a judicial examination.

No Cattle on the Strip.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—General Miles has received a report from the commandant at Fort Reno to the effect that all the cattle on the strip except those belonging to the Cherokees, which the president's order excepted, have been removed. It is now thought the strip is clear for negotiations for the opening of the land and pending arrangements settled satisfactorily.

A Labor Ticket.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 10.—The American Tablet Co., organized for the purpose of manufacturing tablets, and which from Richmond, Ind., has been incorporated under the laws of Indiana. The capital stock of the company is $100,000.

IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Russia's Persistent Greed for Constantinople.

EARTHQUAKE IN SAN SALVADOR

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Standard from Buenos Ayres says: Eleven ships of war sailed from Montevideo and the Darda-nelles this year. A number of engines have taken heavy guns for fortifying Vladivostock. Several foreign vessels have been chartered to carry stores and munitions. Turkey's yielding to Russia shows that the treaty of Paris is a dead letter, so far as Russia is concerned, as a strong Black sea fleet is being rapidly collected. The triumph of the Russian ambassador at Constantinople shows plainly how Russia is paving the way to achieve her long cherished ambition—the possession of Constantinople.

A Berlin dispatch says that the alternate of M. De Freycinet, the French minister of war, in favor of peace, are not regarded as of much weight in Germany, owing to the fact that the attitude of the French people remains absolutely hostile and that of Russia is strongly aggressive. It is not believed however, that war will begin on the Franco-Prussian frontier, but that the drama will be opened at Constantinople. The news from that point has for several days overcome in interest anything heard from France, and the opinion is openly expressed that a collision will shortly take place between the British and the Porte unless the sultan chooses to yield to England's demand. If he does Lord Salisbury, he may expect to see the Russian under pretext of assisting him, promptly occupy Constantinople, and if he does give in to the British then the Russians become his enemies. The sultan is said to be most perplexed over the situation and angry at the unanimous ministers, whom he accuses of having led him into the dilemma. The latest story of their dismissal is that the grand vizier, Kiamil, and the minister of war, permitted to look at a plan that the sultan had formed for the overthrow of the Khedive Tewfik, and the reassumption of sovereignty over Egypt. The sultan had long been urged by Russia and France to put an end to British occupation in Egypt and his own inclinations were decidedly in the same direction. It is said on excellent authority that a plot had been formed to seize Tewfik and to send him to Constantinople as a prisoner, where his father, Ismail, is now held in virtual captivity, then to appoint a new khedive by Firman direct from the porte and demand that the British at once recognize his authority, which would be maintained by the landing of Turkish troops at Alexandria. It was believed that the British would not, under such circumstances, care to enter into open hostilities with the sultan as suzerain of Egypt. The plot was said to be a profound secret, confined to the sultan, to Vizier Kiamil and the minister of war, but somehow the British became aware of it, and the sudden appearance of a British fleet at Alexandria, in July, was the consequence of the discovery, and a notice both to the Egyptians and to Turkey that any interference with Tewfik would be followed by another bombardment. This put an end to the scheme, much to the chagrin of the sultan, who has never since, it is said, been fully minded upon a change of ministry, though he deferred the blow apparently in hopes that he would be able to detect the British agent if any, in his cabinet. It is rumored at Constantinople that since the dismissal of the ministers, very cruel means have been used to wring information from them and from their servants and that some of the latter have been subjected to torture and even death.

A correspondent who has traveled through Finland says the crops of that portion of the Russian empire are up to the average and that Finland may be expected to contribute to the relief of the rest of the empire. The Finlanders, however, are usually employed at the imperial navy, prohibiting them from exporting rye to share they grow. The general decree, however, did not apply to Finland, which has a commercial system distinct from Russia, but an edict was issued prohibiting exportation of rye from the grand duchy. This prevents the Finns from sending rye to Sweden where it is in great demand, and with which country Finland has considerable trade.

While the peasantry of Russia are dying of starvation by whole villages, the Danish family, party including the czar and his party, have been enjoying a grand round of festivities at Fredensborg. The czar has not permitted business to interfere to any great extent with his pleasures, although kept informed by telegraph and daily courier of affairs of state. The effect of the misery of his subjects upon him is not known, and the routine of enjoyment has gone on as usual.

A veteran parliamentarian speaking of the labor movement said: If no other good comes out of this movement in this country, it will have accomplished an immense task in having made the cause of labor respected and the demands of labor listened to with consideration.

A terrible accident due to somebody's carelessness occurred at Glasgow to-day. A number of railroad laborers were engaged in repairing a railroad track along which a number of trains were constantly passing. As usual in such cases the drivers of all passing engines had been warned to keep a lookout for the laborers at work at the point referred to, and to whistle when nearing it. This warning seemed to have been given to the driver of an express train or else he paid no attention to it. In any case the express train dashed into the midst of the working trackmen, killed five men upon the spot and seriously injured a number of others. The usual official investigation is in progress.

Among the subjects brought before the trades' union congress was whether children should be allowed to work in factories. The subject was an interesting one to all present. The great majority of the delegates were in favor of raising the limit of age. A minority were opposed to it. The majority based their arguments upon human and moral principles; the minority claimed that raising the limit would be the means of taking a certain portion of the daily bread out of the mouths of many poor families who could not afford such a loss. The delegates were reminded that many boys and girls were, in case of sickness, the support of their parents, and younger brothers and sisters. These arguments, however, had little weight against views expressed by those who set forth in cutting words the evils attendant upon allowing children of tender years to labor.

The body of Major Jonas M. Handy, late editor of the Mail and Express of New York, was embalmed and taken to the American church in Paris, where a simple but impressive funeral service was performed.

Russian funds have been in the receipt of a statement from Paris that the non Russian loan had been completed and would be issued in the course of a month.

The body of ex-President Grevy was embalmed last night. The position will be buried after an imposing state funeral at which President Carnot, M. De Freycinet, president of the council of ministers, and the other members of the cabinet and a large number of senators, deputies and general officers will be present.

All under A Son, corn brokers of Threadneedle street, have failed. Their liabilities amount to £1,870,000 and their assets to £27,[illegible] which they have incurred since May last in speculations in grain cargoes.

Kiamil Pasa is still a close prisoner in his palace. A commission, consisting of Riza Pasha, Reghib Bey and Abdulkerim, has been appointed to investigate the charges against Kiamil Pasha of plotting to dethrone the sultan.

A trusted clerk in the Berlin Mercantile bank has absconded with 470,000 marks. There is no clue to his whereabouts.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 10.—In the province of Ufa bands of peasants are roving over the highways attacking convoys of grain and food even when the convoys are escorted by soldiers. Fights are of frequent occurrence and many persons have been killed. Crime is rampant owing to a desire to escape starvation by imprisonment. The jails are crowded with prisoners.

Earthquake in San Salvador.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—A dispatch received in this city from San Salvador, Central America says: Millions of dollars worth of property and many lives were destroyed in this republic by an earthquake to-day. Whole towns were wiped out, and, so far as advices received here indicate, hardly a city in this country, except those along the coast, escaped the awful effects of the convulsion. There have been indications for several days past that a seismic disturbance of more than usual power might be expected. The volcanoes of San Salvador, San Miguel and Izaco have been unusually active, and deep subterranean rumblings and slight earth tremors have been felt.

People rushed into the streets in their night clothing. The scene was terribly sublime. Men, women and children were shrieking and praying in the streets. The walls of houses cracked, tottered and fell.

There was a deep continuous rumbling as if a heavy thunder, the sky was overcast and the air was filled with a the penetrating shock. Underneath sullen bellow the earth rose and fell in long waves, and strong men were unable to keep their feet. The panic stricken people flocked to the open ground outside of the city.

It is impossible at this writing to form any idea as to the number of lives which have been lost. The loss of property will run well into the millions.

Volcanic Shocks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The report of the earthquake in San Salvador last night recalls the fact that this is the third time within forty years that San Salvador has been destroyed by earthquake shocks. In April, 1854, not a single house was left in the city for habitation and over 300 lives were lost. The dust and debris from the falling buildings filled up all of the wells and drinking places. Again, in March, 1873, the city was shaken to the ground. Over $5,000,000 worth of property was destroyed then and upward of fifty lives were lost. So it seems that destructive disturbances visit the country at intervals of nineteen years.

Mormon Workers Abroad.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The renewed activity of Mormon missionaries in England and Scandinavia is attracting marked attention. As previously stated, fully 200 elders from Utah are now engaged in the work of proselyting in the country mentioned. They are all from Salt Lake City with commissions to stay one or two years, when they return and their places are taken by others. In Yorkshire there are known to be eight at work and more than this number are laboring in Lancashire. Two of these missionaries have been working in a small Lancashire village for nearly a year. They do not hold public meetings but endeavor to secure converts by private interviews. Their method is to visit the people in their own homes and in conversation with them to point out the beauty of the system of belief of the Latter Day Saints. They have a supply of tracts, setting forth the Mormon faith, which they freely distribute. These proselytes are young men.

A reporter happened to be visiting a cottage when one of these missionaries called. The cottage was occupied by three women weavers, and all single. The elder said after a pleasant greeting: "I will leave you this tract and will call again to answer any questions you may desire to ask me about it." The tract contained an outline of the doctrines and was entitled "The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, its Faith and Teaching. By Elder John Morgan."

A man whom one of these elders visited says: "I asked them a single question and that was enough. I asked: 'Do you believe in a plurality of wives?' He replied in the affirmative. I then told them that that finished the job so far as I was concerned."

To another man one of the elders showed a card containing the "articles of faith" of the Latter Day Saints which asserted belief in the gift of prophecy, visions, the power of healing by prayer, etc. The man suggested to the elder that he go with him and view a girl who had a withered hand. To this request the elder replied that he had as a right (referred to the blind by prayer, but that he would not visit the girl referred to as faith was necessary on her part in order to enable him to bring about a cure. He did not in the course of an interview said polygamists were as of as pure life as others. They lived in accordance with the laws of Abraham. They were not prompted by vice, but were simply fulfilling God's will. "There are no Mormons now living in polygamy," said he, "but they are obeying the decision of the supreme court of the United States. In Utah it is believed that the decision is unjust and we fought it until the church decided to abide by the decision. The decision, however, caused a great amount of suffering in consequence of the forced separation of wives and children from their husbands and fathers. It is not true that the Mormons are opposed to education. What Brigham Young opposed was the public schools in the United States. We believe that education includes religious instruction. We believe that Christ will return to his own people, who will be gathered together in the United States. Our converts are still mostly drawn from England, Wales and Scandinavia."

During the interview the words "martyr" and "martyrdom" were frequently used.

Democrats Municipal Victory.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 10.—The city election yesterday resulted in an almost complete overturn and the first victory for the Democrats on strictly party grounds have achieved in municipal affairs in many years. The Democrats elected their mayor, full board of six aldermen and eight of fifteen councilmen with one failure to elect. This majority of four and possibly five on a joint ballot gives them control of all city offices whose election is by city council. Last year the Republicans had the mayor, five aldermen and nine councilmen or a joint majority of seven. Colonel Honey's majority for mayor is 93.

FASSETT AT HOME.

The Citizens of Elmira Give Him An Ovation.

STATE AND THE CAMPAIGN ISSUES

Fassett at Home.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 10.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon the Hon. J. Sloat Fassett, the nominee of the Republican convention for governor, accompanied by his wife, mother and brother, left Rochester for this city, the home of Mr. Fassett. At the various stopping places outside Mr. Fassett was greeted by enthusiastic crowds and delivered several short speeches outlining the issues of the campaign.

Arriving at Elmira, the scene was of great magnificence. Colored lights, Roman candles, sky rockets, cheers and bombs were exploded continuously, while bands played and the multitude which had gathered to welcome home Elmira's popular citizen and the ablest man who has ever been connected with the gubernatorial election of the state, gave up cheer after cheer for Fassett. The nominee accompanied by his wife and mother entered the first carriage and the procession started. The party were driven through the principal streets, which were gorgeously decorated and illuminated. When the opera house was reached the party were escorted to the stage where seats were provided for them. Archibald Baxter called the meeting to order and introduced Mr. G. L. Smith of Elmira as chairman. Mr. Smith introduced the gubernatorial nominee who addressed the meeting as follows:

"I come here to-night glad to be among people whom I love and whom you are teaching me to believe love me. You and there both ladies and gentlemen, and citizens in a great state the greatest state in the union. Many of you, most of you, are interested in the work which I am to do that affects the interest of one of the great political parties in the state and in the nation. The party by its chosen representatives in Rochester has placed upon me a great and sacred trust. It has commanded me to go upon a great mission. It has asked me to tell to the people of Elmira, and the people of this county, and the people of this state something about the Republican party—what it has done and something about the Democratic party and what it has not done." (Cheers.)

"I cannot be expected (to that time) to discuss here and now, without wounding sensibilities, without creating irritation, in a limited scene, I propose to set the keynote of the campaign, and tell you for what purpose. I hope this is to be a campaign of illumination. I want to turn on the lights. I want you to search the records, I want you to refresh your memories, I want you to investigate. I want you to lay aside prejudice and passion. I have one purpose, and that this shall be absolutely purely a campaign of education and organization. No personal detraction, no personal abuse, no holding up the light of false issues, no falsification of falsehoods and misrepresentations. There is enough for us and Americans to think about and come to conclusions about without sensational episodes and personal detractions of any nature whatever. It is my duty as a citizen of this state, and as a citizen of this country, to take an intelligent interest in public affairs to devote a great deal of time to the study and investigation to be able to pass an intelligent verdict on all public questions that are brought forward to claim for his consideration. No man has a right to ask for law and order to be enforced, to ask for protection of his person and property unless he is willing to pay the inevitable penalty and price, and that is to show an individual, aggressive and intelligent interest and participation in public affairs. Let the light be turned on. Let it be turned on the legislative record of every Republican legislator for nine years, let it be turned on the Democratic executive for nine years and let it be turned on every Democratic legislator for nine years. This campaign is a campaign for the illumination of my record, not the discussion of them. I want you to take up and weigh in the balance the average work, the average emotion, and the average fulfilment of the promises of the Republican party on the one side and the Democratic on the other side. Upon that investigation the Republican party is willing to stand or fall. We challenge the record; we invite an investigation.

"The Republican party has always been for more freedom of speech, more freedom of worship, more freedom of thought, more freedom of action; for a free ballot and for free men. There is no story of wrong done to any class in all its records. There is no story of a wrong done to any race in all its history. There is no trace, or even a memory of a wrong done to individuals or classes in any form.

"While I reserve to myself the right to say kind things of my neighbor, Governor David B. Hill, I also reserve the right to strongly criticize his public policy and public acts. (Cheers.) If in the discharge of his duty it seems to me as a source of record he has forgotten the people for his party or has put party before the people, and has shut his eyes to the constitution and his ears to the voice of the people, I have a right, and it is my duty to point out the facts to you. If in my public career I have been derelict in my duty to my constituents, if I have outraged the interests of the laboring classes or of the capitalist class, or if I have been indifferent to the cries of the people in the prison, or neglected the schools, or been indifferent to the public welfare, it is not only right of my Democratic opponents to say so, but it is their duty. So then, let it be understood that this is to be a campaign of illumination. If the good Lord will give us grace enough to get through in these times of hurrying the light on a fearless examination of records and discussion of measures, not men."

State Pharmaceutical Association.

The State Pharmaceutical association completed its labors for 1891 yesterday, and most of the members returned to their homes last night. At the morning session the new officers were installed and two gentlemen were treated to pleasant surprises. The president, Mr. C. M. Ford, was presented with a handsome silver tea set as a token of the regard of the fraternity. To Mr. G. B. Stone, the secretary, who has been tireless in his efforts to have the meeting a complete success in every way, and who succeeded, was presented a beautiful and valuable gold-headed cane.

The games at Big Pond commenced at half past eleven. A ball game of Denver against the state was played through two innings and a half, out of which the Denvers were at bat three times. Even with this advantage the score stood 17 to 9 in favor of the others. Stoner pitched for the state nine and struck out six men in two innings, while in the first half of the third Wells, of Pueblo, struck out three more, showing that the Denver boys were not skilled at the bat. Carts wounded the umbrella for the greatest number of runs. Stoner and Wells each made as many but Carts was more fortunate in drawing bases. The hundred yards race was won easily by Stoner; time somewhere between fifteen and twenty-five seconds. The wheelbarrow race was won by Mr. John Smythe, of Denver.

After the game was over and the banquet prepared in the Cadet [illegible] the guests repaired to the Cadet [illegible] to spend their

STATE EDITORS.

They Begin Their Annual Work in Manitou Yesterday.

The Colorado State Editorial association commenced its annual session in Manitou yesterday afternoon. About twenty five editors are in attendance, many of them with their wives. They are making their headquarters at the Cliff and hold their meetings in Wheeler hall, which is furnished them by the citizens of the town.

The session opened at 2 o'clock when Mr. C. H. Firmine of The Journal delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the town. Reports of committees and other routine business occupied the session.

After supper the party took an electric car furnished free by the rapid transit company and rode over to the Broadmoor Casino where they were received by the members of the Pikes Peak Press club in the two private dining rooms. They then adjourned to the big dining hall where a programme of recitations and the reading of papers was presented by Mrs. Calhoun Dixon, Miss Inez Fields and members of the local club. After the meeting the visitors were shown over the building, expressing great admiration for it.

Cobb Portales made their badges good for admission to the Casino gates; the rapid transit has made them good for free rides on the electric cars, the Manitou Mineral Water company has donated water and ginger champagne, and other courtesies have been extended.

Today they will elect officers and finish up their business for the year, and to-night they embark on the Midland for their annual excursion to Salt Lake City. The people attending the meeting are:

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The stock market this morning was a waiting one. The afternoon being set for publication of the government report on corn, both sides were disposed to wait its publication, in order to obtain a cue as to the next move. The Vanderbilt stocks were again quite active, the rise this morning. North-western, Pacific preferred and St. Paul were also strong. St. Paul was specially active for London account on the good showing of weekly earnings. C. C. C. & St. L. was also active among railroads, rising from 71 to [illegible]. Lake Shore was quite active, and after [illegible] fell to 117¾. Union Pacific also [illegible] a fraction. The remainder of the list was fairly strong and at noon prices were generally [illegible] higher than they closed yesterday. The sales to noon amounted to 199,000 shares.

The stock market was [illegible] active in the afternoon and the bears indulged in considerable raiding, circulating in connection with their raids reports that the government report on corn would show a decrease. The bears were quite successful in their attacks and even New York Central ventured down ¼ per cent and recovered only a fraction of the loss before the close. Fixed charges were irregularly changed, [illegible] yesterday's closing, but in most cases fractionally lower. The sales were 99,[illegible] shares.

The Governor will Attend Peach Day.

TRINIDAD, Sept. 10.—With its usual enterprise the Colorado Midland tendered the use of the road to Governor Routt and party to attend the Peach Day celebration at Grand Junction. The governor and staff will leave Denver Friday night in a special car over the Midland and will also return by the way of the south.

Wonderful Properties of a Bell.

A Yale professor who lives on Prospect Hill has among other Japanese curios a remarkable antique bronze bell from an old temple in Japan, where it was once used by the priests during their ceremonies. This bell is cup shaped and about 12 inches in diameter and 10 inches high. The tone of the bell is remarkable and sweet musical, and a single touch will cause a sound continuing for two or three minutes.

A remarkable feature about the bell is that it resounds when placed on a cushion with the mouth upward, but why the support does not arrest the vibration is a point that has hitherto puzzled physicists, and no one who has seen the bell can explain the phenomenon.—New Haven Palladium.

A Moose Horn Grafted into a Tree.

Something of a curiosity is on exhibition in a show window at D. J. Heaney's. It consists of a very large moose horn, grafted into the base of a tree. It has been in that position for years, as the tree has grown around it so as to get such a grip on it that cutting the wood away is the only means of separating the two. It was found near the Kitty O'Brien mine on the Highlands, south of town, by Tom Gordon. It is evident that at some remote period a hunter was chasing the monarch of the woods, who, in running away, was caught in a tree, and in trying to extricate himself the horn was broken off.—Butte Inter Mountain.

Queer Things from a Well.

A striking confirmation of the theory of the source of supply of artesian waters has been observed at Tours, France where the water, spouting with great velocity from a drill hole in depth, brings up fresh water shells and seeds in such a state of preservation as to show that they could not have been more than three or four months on their voyage. Some of the wells of the Windy Rir have also elected fresh water mollusks, fish and grabs, still living, which, therefore, have made a still more rapid transit.—St. Louis Republic.

The country has not yet forgotten the Cincinnati riots and the shameful official corruption which was disclosed by them. Perhaps what disclosure it would seem that the present condition of affairs is not much better. Cincinnati still does well to adopt legal measures and quickly that there is no excuse for anything else.

Colorado owes no small part of its progress to the body of men who met yesterday in Manitou as the members of the Southern Irrigation Association. Such an organization and such meeting may be made of great benefit to all concerned, and it is to be hoped that the Manitou meeting was well attended and a beginning in the way. The editors leave tomorrow for Salt Lake City. We regret that they could not have remained longer.

COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS.

No one can fully appreciate the peculiar worries and enjoyments of any profession except those who have had personal experience in it. There is however much that is interesting in the description by one who has been there of any experience which is somewhat out of the ordinary, and E. W. Howe's article on "Country Newspapers" in the September Century will be read with interest by a good many people who have only the faintest idea of the meaning of the "latest issue" and do not know the difference between a Washington press and a cider mill. After a few preliminary remarks the writer mentions the curious fact that this business is attended with a failure that does not pay, there are plenty of country papers that have not made a dollar in twenty years. And yet half the people in the country, he says, would like to try running a paper. A matter worthy of some attention is referred to as follows:

"I once visited a large city, the newspapers of which I had long admired almost with reverence, and was surprised to hear a citizen say that what the city really needed was better papers; they would bring eastern capital. Every citizen of a country town wants his locality 'boosted,' to the end that he may sell his fifty dollar lot for $500; he can appreciate that a really good paper might aid him in this, and because his lot does not advance in value as he thinks it should, he has a grievance against the editor."

It may be added that should the newspaper succeed in accomplishing what is desired of him, it is very seldom that the editor receives any adequate reward. A great many newspapers have been started in Colorado towns upon distinct promises of liberal support which were not kept after the editor became so closely identified with the town that it was impossible for him to get away. When a new town is started everyone realizes the importance of a newspaper and liberal promises are very freely made, but keeping them is very often a very different thing. The editor may in his investment in real estate and elusive good will profit with the rest of the community by the advance in values; but it is seldom that he is paid, or that any attempt is made to pay him for the service which it is claimed by most of the people is the distinctive aim of newspaper work. The man whose fifty dollar lot has increased to $500 thinks he is doing a good deal for the editor if he becomes and remains a regular subscriber, while the few who have a score of them, and has perhaps lost sight of thousands by the increase in values of his property, is hardly persuaded to occupy a few inches of advertising space. It would be folly to assert that all the growth of all towns is to be credited to newspapers, yet it is true that the men who are the quickest to lay fault upon the newspapers because a town does not grow, are the slowest to acknowledge their indebtedness to the paper when the town does grow. It is this lack of substantial appreciation which prevents in many cases the accomplishment of the end desired. It is very safe to say that if ten per cent. of the increase in real estate values of Colorado country towns during the past year were given to the editors of the country papers for advertising purposes, the "boom" next year would be heard all over the country, and the increase in value would be in many cases equal even to apparently unreasonable expectations.

Sugar Bounty.

Denver Republican.

The treasury officials estimate that the total amount of sugar which will be produced in the United States this year will be 521,000,000 pounds. Of this 2,000,000 pounds will be sorghum, 9,000,000 maple, 25,000,000 beet, and 485,000,000 cane sugar. This will require the payment of about $10,000,000 in bounties.

Nearly all the cane sugar is produced in Louisiana, there being 701 establishments in that state which will ask for bounties, fifteen in Florida and fifteen in Texas. Beet sugar is produced chiefly in Nebraska and California, sorghum in Kansas, and maple in the states of the northeast. It is estimated that over 4000 persons will ask for bounties on the production of maple sugar.

Particular care will be taken to avoid the perpetration of frauds through the presentation of foreign sugar as a basis upon which to claim bounties. Additional laws required at the beginning of the season of the number of acres to be planted with cane, sugar, and daily statements of the amount of sugar manufactured will be required. Inspectors will make tours of the sugar district for the purpose of ascertaining whether the statements agree with the facts.

There will be a careful inspection of the beet and sorghum factories. Each of these large concerns will have the attention of two gaugers besides the inspector. There will also be three permanent laboratories in which the sugar will be tested. One of these will be in California, another in Nebraska and a third in Washington City. Temporary laboratories will be opened in Kansas, Nebraska, and some of the other states.

This will be the first test of the working of the new bounty law. Public sentiment is still divided as to the wisdom of the law, but the dividing line cuts between the Democratic and Republican parties. The Democrats are opposed to the bounty system on the ground that it is contrary to the spirit of our government, that opposition to the protective tariff is very much the same thing. But if the bounty law shall be found to work as well as the protective policy, this opposition will decline. It is all the more likely to decline if it is the sugar which will be produced. Left from the payment of bounties is found to be a widely Democratic district.

First taking from him a sheet of writing note, with the book I destined, I sealed it with my own seal. It was the Elzevir edition of Horace, which he kept at the foot of his fine library in London, and took always during his life, as his favorite book. The third edition of the "Literary Gems" will comprise the following:

The Evolution of Life, or Causes of Change in Animal Form. A Study in Biology. By Hubland Wilder Mitchell, M. D. The volume will contain 129 illustrations.

The author endeavors to explain the physiological causes that induced those changes of development, and that in one animal form in particular, the animal of the highest development is reached among the lower animals, namely, the Anthropoid Apes, the special steps are then traced that led those higher Apes to become transmuted to man. It is the special object of this book to explain the reasons of these successive changes, and to show how Life first appeared upon the earth, and through what special agency that vital force sprang into existence.

Dr. Johnson disliked lace, and shortly after his epoch, although owing no influence of his, but rather to the tyranny of fashion, lace almost ceased to be worn or valued in England; till in course of time laces of great value were so slightly esteemed that they were considered little better than so much valueless rubbish.

THE TREASURY VAULTS.

So Far as Burglars Are Concerned There Is Absolutely No Danger to Be Apprehended, but Dishonest Treasury Employes Might Make a Big Haul.

[Special Correspondence.]

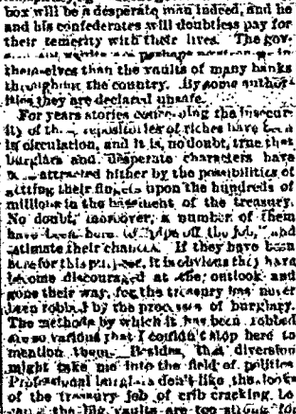
WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Are the treasury vaults safe? Would it be possible for a gang of desperate burglars to effect an entrance to Uncle Sam's strong box and rob him of his accumulated wealth, commonly known as the surplus? They are questions which have been often asked since an anonymous letter was received by Treasurer Nebeker a few weeks ago, informing him that an attempt would be made to rob the vaults of the treasury. No one was frightened by that letter, for such anonymous communications are by no means rare. Two or three times a year some crank or joker writes that the treasury is to be robbed. Now a gang of professional burglars has been organized to overpower the guards and force an entrance to the vaults.

THE DESCENT TO THE VAULTS.

Again, a building near the treasury has been rented, and a tunnel thence to the bottom of the vaults is to be dug. But Uncle Sam's big surplus is still untouched by the fatal hands of midnight burglars, and probably will so continue for a great many years. The burglar who organizes a conspiracy against the government's strong box will be a desperate man indeed, and he and his confederates will doubtless pay for their temerity with their lives. The government makes a package money go in them selves than the vaults of many banks throughout the country. By some authorities they are declared unsafe.

For years stories concerning the insecurity of the repositories of riches have been in circulation, and it is, no doubt, true that burglars and desperate characters have been attracted hither by the possibilities of setting their fingers upon the hundreds of millions in the basement of the treasury. No doubt, however, a number of them have been burned "days off the job," and estimate their chances. If they have been done for this purpose, it is obvious they have become discouraged at the outlook and gone their way, for the treasury has never been robbed by the process of burglary. The methods by which it has been robbed are so various that I couldn't stop here to mention them. Besides, that diversion might take me into the field of politics. Professional burglars don't like the idea of the treasury job of crib cracking, because the big vaults are too strong for them, for they aren't. Probably there isn't a vault in the treasury which three or four expert burglars, properly equipped, could not get into but with saws and augers if they could get at it.

Careful inquiry shows that the treasury vaults have but moderate protection in the way of concrete, steel and modern locks. Their chief protection is of a sort which no burglar likes to contend against, a well picked, thoroughly disciplined squad of watchmen, armed with self cocking six-shooters and Winchester rifles. To get at the vaults a burglarious party would first have to effect an entrance to the building. That would not be easy, as every entrance is guarded by armed men and lighted by electric lights. Admitting that entrance to the building could be secured by hiding during the day or other means, what could be accomplished? Surrounding the vaults are electric lighted corridors, patrolled by dozens of armed men. At the first appearance of a suspicious character a dozen of security men would come running with big revolvers in one hand and Winchesters in another. If shots were exchanged an alarm gong would be set ringing, and the city police department would be instantly notified. Supposing, even, that the burglars could overpower the guards, they would still be unable to reach the treasure, for before they could get a drill into position several hundred police men would swoop down upon them.



AT THE MAIN DOOR.

But the guards could not be overpowered by any ordinary force. At night the treasury is guarded by a carefully organized squad of watchmen, numbering from 80 to 100 men. The armory, which Captain Cobaugh delights to show his visitors, is formidable enough in appearance to strike terror to the heart of the most desperate burglar. On the wall at one end of the armory hangs a torn United States flag, about which sad memories cling. It is the flag which ornamented the box at Ford's theater in which President Lincoln sat when he was shot by Wilkes Booth—the flag which caught the foot of the assassin and threw him as he leaped to the stage. Captain Cobaugh has his force well in hand. Electric signals run throughout the building, and as the watchmen patrol the long, gloomy corridors of the immense building they are able at all times and places to summon assistance by the simple act of touching a button. Captain Cobaugh, himself a veteran of many battles, has under his command a force to be relied upon in any emergency.

The tunneling project does not offer much promise. Your average cracksman does not like the burrowing business. He has no love for being caught in a trap of his own making. Of course it would be possible to rent a store or dwelling near the treasury, from the basement of which tunneling operations could be carried on, but that would be a gigantic task, with such chances of discovery and capture that no sane man would be willing to undertake it. Such a tunnel would have to be at least 200 yards long, and how to dispose of the dirt would not be one of the least of the difficulties in the way. A sewer might be tapped and the excavated dirt thrown into that, to be washed away into the Potomac. In all probability it would be found necessary to introduce tubing. An arch of brick or stone or stays of timber to protect the burrowers from the disastrous results of a cave-in would cut off their line of retreat and bury them like rats in a hole. This could never be done without exciting suspicion. Even if a tunnel were dug to the foundation of one of the vaults, almost insuperable difficulties would there be met.

Under each of the vaults is an enormous mass of concrete, as hard as a rock, to be pierced only by weeks of hard labor. Between the concrete and the treasure are floors of steel beams, which would have to be removed entire or cut, a task which would require the use of good tools besides a great deal of time. It is scarcely supposable that all this operations could be carried on without discovery.

Odd as it may seem, there are only two vaults in the treasury which it would profit the burglar much to enter. These are the gold vaults. The big silver vaults could be easily entered were a tunnel once run under them, and there is plenty of silver within them. In all there is now something like 8,000 tons of silver dollars in the great silver vault built a few years ago and the corridor surrounding it—nearly 130,000,000 silver dollars. But a man can carry only 1,000 or 1,200 silver dollars, and the enterprising tunneler would have great difficulty in making away with enough of the white metal to satisfy their cupidity and reward them adequately to say nothing of the difficulty of disposing of a large number of silver dollars.

In the vaults filled with bonds held as security for national bank circulation, there is $250,000,000. But the robbers would be very foolish to enter this, for though they might run away with a hundred millions of the bonds they could never realize anything on their booty. The number of every bond is known, and any effort to negotiate these securities would inevitably lead to the capture of the thieves. This is true also of the currency vaults. One of these, known as the "reserve vault," contains $250,000,000 in paper money held as reserve to replace worn and mutilated notes, but every one of these notes is numbered, and not one of them could be put into circulation without great danger of discovery.

IN CASES CONTAINING AMOUNT.

One vault contains about $5,000,000 of national bank notes held for redemption, and another $5,000,000 or so of mixed money held for the same purpose. If the burglars could get into these vaults they might be able to run away with some paper which they would be able to dispose of, and the same is true of the "cash vault," in which an average of $2,000,000 is deposited nightly of the money used in the daily business of the department. But these vaults are very difficult of access and at least two of them could not be reached by tunneling, as an entire floor lighted and patrolled, is between them and the ground upon which the treasury stands.

The richest harvest robbers could find in the treasury is in the gold vault, where an average of $27,000,000 in gold coin is stored. Forty thousand dollars in gold weighs a little less than 100 pounds, and a gang of burglars might get away with several millions of this precious metal, and, having made their escape, dispose of the booty without much danger of detection. Gold is easily passed, and it is safe to keep. It can be melted up and a market is ready for it in any part of the world. The gold vault is a rich prize, but if any enterprising burglars read this letter, and by it find their daring and their energies stimulated, I shall do them the kindness of whispering in their ears that the gold vault and several of the other vaults in the treasury are protected by electric wires connected with the alarm gongs in Captain Cobaugh's office.

How humiliated an enterprising burglar would be when, after months of labor, danger and hardship, he had at last burrowed his way to the bottom of the gold vault, and had the yellow treasure almost in his grasp, a bell would be ringing in the watchmen's armory and a score of grim, well armed men were stationed within the vault where the alarm had come, ready to seize him by the hair of the head the instant he succeeded in effecting an entrance!

The danger to the treasury is not from without, but from within. This is shown by the fact that the only robbery of importance that ever took place in the building was of a package of $500 notes containing $47,500, which was passed out to a confederate by a clerk employed in the cash room. More than half of the money was recovered. When he was treasurer Mr. Huston, of Indiana, told me that no system could be devised by which the United States would be free from the danger of a loss of two or three million dollars some day. "But the robbers will have to be treasury employes," he added, "and not outsiders. Of all the men in my office only five or six are permitted to enter the vaults. No one is permitted to enter alone. Two must go together. Suppose these two men to be in collusion, with a confederate outside. They could slip a million or so apiece under their coats and return to their work. The absence of the money might not be discovered for several days, possibly not for several weeks. In that time the thieves could travel to a foreign country."

ROBERT GRAVES.

Young Men That Are Plenty.

"It is very difficult," said a business man, "to make people understand that one can't always employ young men starting in life just to please our friends who recommend them to us. It's bad business policy to employ more men than one needs. In these days of close competition, no business man can afford to spend money unwisely. A certain volume of business justifies and demands a certain expenditure in salaries to carry on that business. It isn't fair to us to ask us to increase our salary list when there is no excuse for so doing. It isn't fair to our trusted and efficient employes to ask us to employ new men and yet maintain our salary list. We can do this only in two ways. One is to pare off enough from the salaries of the old men to provide salaries for the new men. Another is to discharge old men to make room for the new. You see that both plans are out of the question, other things being equal.

"People who send promiscuous letters of recommendation often cause us a great deal of embarrassment. One likes to please a friend, and yet one cannot always, in justice to himself or others, do this. And have you ever noticed how many of these letters of introduction describe the bearers of them as brilliant young men, who will prove of value to those who employ them? Hardly one man in a thousand of those described in this way fulfills the promises made for him. Do those who write such letters ever consider that if a big business house employed all the men who brought letters of recommendation to the firm it would be overwhelmed with employees within a year and driven into bankruptcy in two years by its stupendous salary list?—New York Tribune.

Nature Hoodwinked Him.

In the adorona "office" of one of the east side "hotels," in the midst of an interested group of co-lodgers, a fellow was airing his grievances against nature recently. "Talk of red hair or freckles or cross eyes or bowlegs or crooked noses," he said, "they, one or all, may be inconvenient, they may be useless, but they are blessings, yes sir, blessings compared to my 'Adam's apple.' An 'Adam's apple,' sir, is nature's kick—her slap in the face—a camel's back on a small scale in a man's throat. Brains, sir, talent, genius—nothing will atone for it. It is a fraud, and it never thaws. I might have been anything I desired but for my bunch throat, but who could be persuaded that a man with an Adam's apple attached to him for life could be anything but a freak?"

At the Court of a South Sea King.

A Narrative of Life on the Gilbert Islands, an out-of-the-way Group of the South Pacific Ocean.

BY

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

A new series of letters by Robert Louis Stevenson, describing his experiences and adventures in the Gilbert Islands. This is a group cut off from all regular intercourse with the outside world, to which no post goes, and where only occasional trading vessels touch.

Life in this strange place is most interesting and picturesque. The articles are full of incidents and anecdotes, delightful character sketches of queer people, and dramatic bits of dialogue. The narrative is as captivating as a piece of fiction, full of color, of movement, of strange situations and pictures. The material is altogether fresh and novel. In these papers Stevenson is at his best, they show in its full maturity the charming style of the most perfect master of English of our day.

I. IN A DESERT SEA. Arrival at Butaritari. Island characteristics. The King's palace not so commodious as a laborer's house in the United States. A visit to the King.

II. THE FOUR BROTHERS. The story of a South Sea chieftain. The King acts as executioner. The harem of a tropical potentate. A prince who was nicknamed "Mr. Corpse."

III. AROUND MY HOUSE. Strange sights from the writer's house in the Gilbert Islands. A sea wall built by the hands of queens. The toddy cutters. Beautiful women of the South Pacific. Only one white woman in the islands. A sample ruffian of the South Seas. The parson of Butaritari.

V. MORE CONCERNING THE TAPU. Spies about us. Attack by natives. In danger from drunkards.

VI. THE FIVE DAYS' FESTIVAL. Invited to the King's summer house. A concert of native singers. A barbaric opera. A wonderfully dramatic dance. A South Sea topical song. A native who made a flying machine. A magic lantern show.

VII. HUSBAND AND WIFE IN THE GILBERTS. "A Paradise of Naked Women." Polygamy in the South Seas. Etiquette among the natives. Scenes in a Gilbertine household.

VIII. THE KING OF APEMAMA. The royal trader. The hero of song and the butt of gossip. The last of the South Sea tyrants. A savage Napoleon. An island chief who owns ships.

X. THE PALACE OF MANY WOMEN. A retinue of dusky ladies. An evening at cards with the King. A game of royal inventions. A kingly poet of the Southern Seas.

XI. OUR ATTENDANT FROM THE PALACE. Uncle Parker and his sleight-of-hand performance. The royal cook, and how he was disgraced.

ARMY SOCIETY REUNION.

THE WEST VIRGINIA VETERANS WILL MEET AT HUNTINGTON.

Three Days of Handshaking, Songs, Talks and Parades to Be Enjoyed by the Boys Who Fought the Mountain Battles of 1861-5.

The lively city of Huntington, on the banks of the Ohio, in West Virginia, will forget the record of great circus days and mammoth fairs and mass meetings when the veterans of the Army of West Virginia gather from Sept. 15 to 17. It will be the fifteenth annual reunion of the society, and the committees of Huntington have made extraordinary efforts to distance the fourteen records scored up at these gatherings heretofore.

The Society of the Army of West Virginia was organized at Moundsville, in 1869, with General R. B. Hayes as first president, and has had several very enthusiastic reunions since that time, yet the Huntington committee insist that 1891 shall be the greatest of the series. The membership of this army is very broad, including men who went into western Virginia in 1861, and with McClellan, Rosecrans and Fremont fought in the early mountain battles of the war against Robert E. Lee, Garnett and Stonewall Jackson.

West Virginia was never, from 1861 to 1865, without a Union army defending its borders, its towns and its passes, and from time to time crossing the mountains on the east and southeast, or the Potomac on the north, to strengthen the armies in the Shenandoah valley and in Maryland. The first battle of the war between regularly organized troops of both sides took place at Phillippi, W. Va., June 3, 1861, and General George H. Thomas struck his first blow in the great conflict upon that field.

After that came the battles of Rich Mountain, Beverley, Carrick's Ford, Gauley Bridge and Cheat Mountain, and the hold of the Confederates was finally broken. From that time on West Virginia was a field for the concentration of Union troops to co-operate with the forces at work outside of its borders. In the spring of 1862 General Fremont crossed the mountains with his West Virginia army to Eat-ton with Jackson in the Shenandoah valley, and when General John Pope organized the Army of Virginia to fight Lee and Jackson at the Second Bull Run the same West Virginia army, under General Franz Sigel, marched to the plains of Manassas and made a gallant fight in defense of Washington.

During the invasions of Maryland and Pennsylvania in 1862 and 1863, the West Virginia troops held their lines on the flank of the Confederates as they marched up and down the valley of Virginia, harassing the Confederates and at times giving him damaging blows.

The troops that from time to time formed the forces in West Virginia represented many states. In the early battles West Virginia and Ohio regiments were in the lead. As the field grew in importance and the armies there were strengthened by thousands and tens of thousands other states were represented, and at the battle of Cedar Creek, Oct. 19, 1864, Crook's army of West Virginia, when it helped Sheridan "clean out the valley," included New York, Massachusetts and Illinois regiments, together with many from Ohio and West Virginia.

The prominent generals who fought in West Virginia besides McClellan, Rosecrans, Fremont, Sigel and Crook were Generals R. B. Hayes, J. D. Cox, B. F. Kelley, W. H. Powell, R. H. Milroy and Robert C. Schenck. Of these, Generals Hayes and Powell will attend the reunion at Huntington.

The programme for the occasion will be a universal "how-de-do" and "shake" on the first day, Sept. 15, a grand industrial parade in honor of the veteran visitors on the second day, to close with speeches, songs and other campfire merry makings, and on the third day a parade of the veterans in their old company formations, as far as practicable, escorted by uniformed military societies, social clubs and fire companies. A pavilion holding 5,000 people will accommodate the veterans for their campfire exercises, and the fifteenth meeting of the society promises to be a success in numbers and in social enjoyment.

For the comfort of the crowds of veterans from a distance the hotel and boarding house accommodations of the city will be reinforced by a camping ground provided with tents, and rations will be supplied to the boys who prefer them to a bed on the bare bosom of old Virginia sod.

The society's officers for 1891 are located as follows: President, General R. B. Hayes, Fremont, O.; vice presidents, General W. H. Powell, Bellefille, Ills.; General I. H. Duval, Wellsburg, W. Va.; General W. H. Enochs, Hartford, O.; Vail H. Bailey, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Colonel D. D. Johnson, Long Reach, W. Va.; Colonel John A. Turley, Portsmouth, O.; Colonel Thayer Melvin, Wheeling; Major B. M. Skinner, Dunmoy, O.; James H. Bossford, Youngstown, O.; Captain H. C. McWhorter, Charleston, W. Va.; Captain N. R. Warwick, Cincinnati; Captain T. H. McKee, Washington; Captain C. E. Irwin, Wheeling; Captain James Barnes, U. S. A., Washington; Captain J. W. W. Bottom, Fairmount, W. Va. The executive committee in charge of reunion affairs for the season consists of George A. Flouling, Sam Gibson and Mark Poole, of Huntington.

Since the last reunion General B. F. Kelley and Colonel W. B. Curtis, vice presidents of the society, have died. General Kelley was from first to last one of the most energetic organizers and commanders of West Virginia troops that the Union came had in that region. He was wounded at Phillippi and afterward exercised proper commands along the Maryland and West Virginia borders.

Gall stones are concretions formed in the gall bladder from some of the constituents of the bile. They vary in size from a millet seed to a hen's egg, and occasionally are much larger.

Points About a Sculptor.

M. Antonin Mercie, one of the greatest sculptors of Paris, has recently been elected a member of the French academy. The finest equestrian statue in America is the work of this distinguished sculptor. Four years' study and labor Mercie expended on his statue of General Robert E. Lee, unveiled at Richmond, May 29, 1890. M. Mercie's atelier is one of the most classic, beautiful spots in Paris. It is a part of his splendid hotel overlooking the beautiful gardens of the Observatory. He has recently married a second wife, the daughter of a family of the old regime. Mercie is a Bourgeois, and was educated to follow his profession. Coming to Paris at an early age, he took the Prix de Rome, and his rise in art has been rapid and brilliant.

"The Biglow Papers."

"The Biglow Papers" have a curious interest for the linguist. The New England dialect as it then was is preserved in them with wonderful skill. They will be studied centuries hence for that reason, as Chaucer and Bede are studied now. For the new school of dialectians who generally take as their text of a dialect story have a still deeper interest. They will be the popular view of their time.

Manitou.

Manager Smith of the Pike's Peak carriage line, reports a thriving business.

Mr. J. F. Pawson closed his new hotel, the Grand View, yesterday for the winter. He has enjoyed a quite prosperous season.

The excursion of Colorado Springs people up the Peak to-day will probably take two trains. The road will remain open until October 1.

Mrs. M. A. Leddy, the wife of the mayor, who has been prostrated for some weeks by a severe attack of mountain fever, is once more able to be about.

Mr. T. A. Hood, the lessee of the Mineral Springs hotel, is very low with the mountain fever. Dr. Lewis is once more in charge of the house and will keep it open for some time.

The Ruxton house and the St. Elmo hotel closed yesterday. Mr. Fullerton has greatly improved the Ruxton during the season so that it now is almost entitled to rank as one of the first-class hotels of the resort.

The game of ball between the Alamo and Antlers nines will be called at 2:30 p. m. to-day at the Athletic grounds. The following are the nines:

Camp Meeting Notes.

The 6 o'clock meeting yesterday morning was conducted again by Elder Starr and the subject of the inspiration of the Bible continued. Many interesting points were developed. One noticeable feature is that nearly every person has Bible, pencil and paper and carries home with him the sermons to study them there.

The Sabbath School association had a meeting at 9:45 and elected officers for the coming year.

At 10:45 Elder Underwood preached a powerful sermon in which a strong appeal was made to yield to God and become converted, after which all who desired to seek God were invited to take the front seats, when some twenty persons responded. The scene was a reminder of the early days of Methodism when the old fashioned "mourners' bench" was in vogue. Tears and sobs told of the heartfelt sorrow of those who were seeking pardon for their sins.

The revival services were continued in the afternoon when Elder Mattison of Boulder preached the parable of the "Prodigal Son."

In the social meeting which followed many touching testimonies were given.

To-day Mrs. E. G. White of Michigan is expected to be present and speak to the people. Mrs. White has been in the work from its first organization and has traveled extensively in this country and Europe. She is now on the way to Australia and New Zealand.

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1891.

The ball this afternoon will be a new and exciting sight to the inhabitants of Colorado Springs.

Attention is called to the interesting advertisement of Mr. P. A. Patten among the business locals.

Miss Rebecka Heap returned home yesterday morning after a visit of one week to New York and other eastern cities.

Stated Communication of El Paso Lodge, No. 5, A. F. and A. M. Tonight. All visiting brethren cordially invited to attend.

Mr. Hollaender, who has conducted a ladies' hair dressing parlor in Manitou all summer, has leased rooms in the Rowe building and will be pleased to have ladies call and see his work.

The popular table d'hote dinners at the Broadmoor Casino have been renewed under the charge of Mr. E. F. Clark. The table and service have both been improved since the change.

On and after September 12, the Pike's Peak carriage line will transport passengers from Manitou or Cascade to the summit and return for $5. Stages will leave Manitou at 7:15 and Cascade at 8:30 a. m.

The guests of the New Alamo enjoyed a delightful game of progressive euchre Wednesday evening. There were 64 contestants of which Mrs. Walton and Mr. Scott secured first prizes and Mrs. Hunn and Dr. Bird second.

A man named Ed Myers was arrested last night for stealing $15 from a man in Colorado City. Myers, it is said, snatched the money from the hand of its owner yesterday evening and came to Colorado Springs. He was found in bed in a room over the Pacific express office, on Pike's Peak avenue.

Following is Emery P. Moon's record of the weather for the week ending Sept. 9, taken at Husted, Colo.: Maximum temperature, 86° on the 4th; minimum temperature, 20° on the 3d; weekly mean temperature, 62.30°; Direction of the wind, south four days, north two days, varying one day.

Those who expect to attend the opening performance of the opera house on Monday evening should secure their seats in advance. They are being sold at popular prices and are meeting with quite a brisk demand. The opening attraction will be Hoyt's popular play, "A Midnight Bell," by the original company with their own special scenery.

Mr. S. W. Teagarden, editor of the Aspen Sun and formerly of this city, was greeting his friends here last evening. He has just returned from attending the state camp of the P. O. S. of A. in Pueblo, and there was reinstated in his position in the order by an overwhelming vote, thus overcoming charges that had been preferred against him.

Mrs. Hide Hudson has issued invitations for an art reception to be given Mme. Helen De Lange of Denver at 135 North Nevada avenue next Monday evening. Mme. De Lange has exceptional artistic talent and has devoted the past two years to art studies. She has many friends among the artists of Colorado as well as the east and her ability has been thoroughly recognized by the profession.

A telegram received in this city to-day announced the death at his brother's home in Pittsburg of Mr. H. A. Haleck who was for a long time connected with the Western Union telegraph office in this city as night operator. Last spring he was forced to go east by accident at first of heart trouble, but the change in altitude did not affect the desired relief. He was a faithful, efficient and very skilled operator and had a great many friends among the patrons of the office.

Mr. Ben Blanchard, who was brought before Justice Farrar's court on Tuesday for presenting for payment a bogus check for $7.850 on Wheeler's bank in Manitou, was again before the court on Friday afternoon, his case having been continued to that time. Judge Henry, the defendant's attorney, waived examination, and the defendant was bound over in the sum of $3,000. He has already secured his bondsman. Pattison & Campbell are assisting the prosecution.

The lecture by Rev. C. H. Green at the Baptist church next Tuesday evening will be an occasion of much interest to all who can attend and a rare treat to such as have given any study to the subject of prehistoric races of North America. Very few people indeed have any conception of the extent of the remains of the ancient races, and which are found in that extensive area in southern Colorado and adjoining parts of Utah and Arizona. The climate of the region is so arid that all articles found in the ruins are remarkably well preserved, while much of the masonry discovered is on a stupendous scale. Mr. Green has made a careful personal exploration, resulting in an extensive and varied collection, including several mummies, and the exhibition of a portion of this collection with numerous stereopticon views will be a feature of the proposed lecture. This will be our only opportunity, since Mr. Green will at once leave to fill engagements to lecture in the principal eastern cities, and the young people of the church count themselves fortunate in being able to offer an entertainment at once so instructive and interesting.

To-day's Programme.

The programme for the gymkhana races to be held at the grounds of the Country club to-day is as follows:

First race—Tilting for rings.

Second race—Tent pegging.

Third race—Dressing race. Ponies to be brought to the starting point with only a bridle on. Saddle, coat and vest of rider to be on the ground. After the starting signal is given, each competitor (without any outside assistance) to saddle, girth his pony, put on his vest and coat and make the best of his way to the winning post, where he is to arrive with vest and coat entirely buttoned. Vest to have at least five buttons, coat at least three buttons.

Fourth race—Polo ball and bucket race. Each competitor to place three polo balls in separate buckets distributed between starting and winning points. First to, after placing all three balls in their respective buckets, wins.

Fifth race—Egg and spoon race—Each competitor to receive a wooden spoon with an egg on it, to be carried with one hand to the winning post without touching it. Should the egg fall, the competitor to replace it in the spoon without assistance, and start again from the point where it fell, or he may return to the starting point for another egg.

Sixth race—Cigar and umbrella race—Ponies to be brought to the starting point with saddle and bridle, rider to be on the ground and to receive cigar, matches and umbrella. District Court.

The following business was transacted yesterday in the district court:

1441. People vs. Wesley De Mead. Motion to quash information argued and sustained. Defendant ordered held until new information can be filed.

1329. Charles Smock vs. The Denver, Texas and Ft. Worth Railroad company. Motion of defendant for leave to make copies of certain documents denied without prejudice.

1421. People vs. Joseph Miller. Counsel for defendant withdrew notice of motion for new trial.

1437. People vs. James Fitzgerald. The district attorney stated that he had been misinformed in the case, and was satisfied that he could not secure a conviction, so the defendant was discharged.

At the close of the testimony, Mr. Garrison dismissed as to Vierling. The defendants were charged with robbing a Swede of $15 in a Colorado City saloon, on the 17th of August last. At midnight the jury came in and found Bell and Morgan guilty of grand larceny and they were remanded for sentence. Denton was discharged.

Court will meet at 9:30 this morning.

HAVE YOU SEEN THEM?

Recently the leader of the past generation of French artists, used to say that the portrait art was the most difficult of all arts. It is a great deal more difficult than to refer to a grade of work far above the commercial portraits which usually make the sum of all the portraits seen outside art centers.

There are a number of really artistic portraits now on display at Van Petten Bros' drug store. They are made by a young American artist, E. E. Patten, who, although he has not nearly completed his art schooling, is already well known in the portrait line from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Lakes to the Gulf. He has had training from some of the best famous American artists in New York and was elected a member of the Art League of New York in which his work stands remarkably high.

Those desiring portraits from life, position, etc., can rely on securing a remarkable piece of work, but also one which must surely increase in value with the certain rise of the artist's prices and fame.

He is represented here for a few days by his brother, P. A. Patten, whose rooms are at No. 118 N. Tejon St.
